Re: Eligibility for Merit and Promotion Reviews: Researchers, Project Scientists, Specialists, and Academic Coordinators

The lists of non-senate academic employees in the titles listed above, eligible for merits and promotions during the 2021-22 academic personnel review cycle and effective July 1, 2022, are now available. Deadlines for departmental submission of cases are:

Researchers: March 1, 2022

Specialists and Project Scientists: April 1, 2022

Academic Coordinators: May 2, 2022

To access your eligibility list, please log on to AP Folio via the Academic Personnel web site and click on the Eligibility Listing link. Links will then appear for each category of employees. Chairs and Directors as well as any staff within your office who have access to the online cases processing system have access to the eligibility information. In addition to viewing the lists you may download them to Excel or save PDF versions.

The July 1, 2022, eligibility screen for each employee category listed above includes the following sections:

Employees eligible for review to be effective 7/1/2022

Listed members are eligible for review based on their years at rank, step, or since last review. Mandatory reviews are so designated and may not be deferred. An action must be selected for each eligible employee. Departments are encouraged to enter selections by January 31 to assist with planning.

All other employees in your department

These employees are not eligible for review based on years at rank, step, or since last review. However, Department Chairs and Directors should consider the performance since last review of each person on this list for possible acceleration, if justified.

Please note: Deferrals are no longer automatic for Academic Researchers (Researcher, Project Scientist, and Specialist series.) Please refer to the January 23, 2020 memo for the case deferral process

If you have any questions or see any discrepancies related to the eligibility information, please contact the staff in Academic Personnel as follows:

Academic Coordinator eligibility: Helly Kwee at helly.kwee@ucsb.edu or Lia Cabello at lia.cabello@ucsb.edu.

Researcher, Project Scientist, or Specialist eligibility: Joanna Kettmann at joanna.kettmann@ucsb.edu.

Technical questions related to use of the site: help@aait.ucsb.edu.

In order to assure that submission deadlines are met, I suggest you begin meeting with your academic employees in a timely manner to advise each of them about going forward or deferring their cases.
